I think you misunderstand the class definition. The question is not whether she received calls, voicemails and texts from Walgreen's. She would need to have received precoded prescription calls from Walgreen's within the relevant time. I will double check the class List but we were told she was not on it. Did she get a notice sent to her?. If not, when did she receive the prescription calls?

Give me some dates for the deposition just in case we still need it but I'm also happy to Lee working with you to see if we can avoid it.

Best,

Jay

Jay,

My client, Lyndy Streight's cell phone number is and was 405-694-6269. This is the same number that appears on the filed Objection. My client also received calls, voicemails and text messages to her cell phone from the Defendant as alleged in this class action and is therefore a class member.

Also, I was just made aware that my client has recently received a subpoena to testify and produce documents in this matter. Unfortunately, I am not available next week as I have had to move several things onto my schedule for next week as a result of a previous vacation. In addition, my client's work obligations and schedule makes her unavailable for the week of 8/10/15. If I can provide you with some additional information in order to forego the need for my client's testimony please let me know. Otherwise, after checking my availability and conferring with my client, I will get back to you with some more convenient dates for a deposition.

Brent,

Thanks for taking the time to speak to me. During our call, I explained the reason we don't believe your client is a class member -- specifically, we were informed that her cell phone number does not appear on the class list. You told me that you had briefly discussed the issue with Matt and that you disagreed with my position but nevertheless wanted to take a look at the file and speak to Matt again. Obviously, that's fine with us. If you could get back to us by the end of the week letting us know your position, I would appreciate it.

Best,

Jay
